METHOD OF HOLDING PROPERTY.

Immigration, the revision of methods of holding Catholic church property and the necessity for an accurate Catholic courses were among the more important things discussed Archbishop Farley, of New York;

Archbishop Fariey was elected Vice President of the Board of Trustees of the Catholic University to succeed the late Archbishop Ryan. The imperative need of an accurate Catholic consus was generally discussed, but all the Archbishops realized that It was a matter that tovolved great obstacles. The chief obstacle is to secure an accurate census of the immigrants in each dlocese. Many of these are what are known as drifters. For several years after arriving in the United States they drix from place to place before settling down. However, the Archbishops hope to evolve a plan that will make the ensus as nearly accurate as possible. The Archbishops of New York, Philadelphia and St. Louis had prepared a report dealing with the methods of noiding church property in the various dioces to that report the holding of land by the various local churches was not regarded as so beneficial to the church interests as having all the church property under the direct
